HOW TO USE THIS FORM

1. When registering a goat whose sire & dam are both NDGA registered, fill out the top section completely.
2. If you are registering a goat and transferring it to a new owner at the same time, fill in both the top and the gray sections
3. If you are transferring ownership of a goat that is already NDGA registered, fill in the goat's name in the top section, then fill out gray section completely. Send in this form to NDGA along with the original NDGA Certificate. Transfers for goats that are already registered cannot be done without the original Registration Certificate.
4. If the goat you are registering is already registered with AGS or ADGA, please send a photo copy of the AGS or ADGA Registration Certificate.
5. When sending photo copies of AGS, or ADGA registration papers, if the "date of sale" or transfer information is on the back of the certificate, also include a photo copy of the back. A copy of the AGS Bill of Sale or a signed and dated NDGA Transfer MUST be included.

OTHER INFORMATION:

1. Who is the breeder? The breeder is the person who owns the dam at the time of conception. When registering a goat, you always use the herd name of the breeder.
2. When do I need a Breeding (Service) Memo? If the sire of the goat you are registering is not owned by the breeder, you must have the owner of the sire fill out and sign a Breeding Memo. You also need a Breeeding Memo for the sire when you purchase a doe that is already bred.
3. How to register the kids when you purchased a doe that is already bred: When you purchase a bred doe, the owner should provide you with a signed Transfer Form (Bill of Sale) for the doe and a Breeding Memo for the sire. You can transfer the doe at any time. The Breeding Memo should be kept and turned in with the Registration Application for the kids when they are born. When the kids are born, they will be registered with the herd name of the breeder. The purchaser of the bred doe will be shown as the owner and the term "PRENATAL" will be used as the date of ownership. Prenatal means you owned the kids before birth but after conception.
